Protection

Sunday & Monday, 9pm, ITV1
(box set, ITVX)

Line of Duty fans won't want to miss this thrilling deep dive into the secretive and high-stakes world of witness protection in ITV1 crime drama Protection, starring Happy Valley actors Siobhan Finneran and Katherine Kelly.

The six-part series begins in shocking fashion when a key witness and his wife are gunned down at the start of this Sunday's opening episode.

DI Liz Nyles (Finneran) and her team had been watching over high-profile criminal turned informant Jimmy McLennan (Kris Hitchen) at a safe house, only for him to be murdered before he could give evidence against powerful drug lord Eddie Crowther (Alec Newman).

It was the job of Liz and colleague DS Raj Kohli (Chaneil Kular) to keep the family's whereabouts strictly hidden, and the killing raises grave questions about the integrity of Liz's unit. Has someone in the team been leaking information to organised crime?

'That big event in the opening minutes draws you in immediately,' says Finneran. 'Then you're ready to go on a journey with Liz, to find out what's going on. It's a great hook and the story is so complex – I've never done a job this intense.'

The case is muddled by the fact that single mum Liz has secretly started an affair with a married junior colleague, DS Paul Brandice (Barry Ward).

'Liz has a 16-year-old daughter and has just become a full-time carer to her father,' explains Finneran. 'Paul is a new officer in the witness-protection unit. He's fun, makes a play for her and she falls for it. She knows it's morally wrong, but

DCI Amanda Kelman*Nadine Marshall

A senior officer at the professional-standards department, which investigates police corruption, DCI Kelman is a forbidding operator.

DCI Hannah WheatleyKatherine Kelly

The head of the major investigations team is suspicious of Liz and pursues her tenaciously. Does she have another agenda?

she's quite lonely and it's a bit of an escape – although the murder of the McLennans blows her situation out of control.

Liz is perturbed when she realises that Paul was at the McLennans' safe house on the day they were shot and only narrowly survived the attack himself. But why was he there?

Confronted with the chilling suspicion that Paul has been using her for information, Liz begins her own unofficial investigation into the case. Meanwhile, she must also help protect the McLennans' 12-year-old daughter Amy (Tilly Kaye), who is now a witness in the murder case.

'Liz feels maternal towards Amy, but she also feels a huge amount of guilt – if she hadn't had an affair with Paul, the killers might not have known where the family was,' explains Finneran. 'She got involved with somebody she shouldn't have. As a result, Amy has been orphaned in horrific circumstances.'

INTERNAL INTRIGUE

DCI Hannah Wheatley (Kelly) begins looking into Liz's involvement in the case, alongside her formidable colleague, DCI Amanda Kelman (Nadine Marshall), who has been tasked with weeding out corruption in Liz's unit.

Meanwhile, Liz's father, Sid (David Hayman), a retired policeman who's now living with the early stages of dementia, warns Liz that DCI Kelman has a fierce reputation for rooting out corrupt officers.

'DCI Wheatley believes that collaboration is the best option, but very quickly she thinks Liz is holding things back and preventing the crucial flow of information,' reveals Kelly, 45. 'Gradually, she starts to join a few dots...'

The series is co-written by White House Farm writer Kris Mrksa, and based on the experiences of a real-life witness-protection officer, who Finneran met on set one day.

'Nobody really knows all the trappings of witness protection because it's all hidden away, and even within the police force, it's a very separate unit,' says Finneran, 58. 'It's not a job I'd ever think about doing. It's so secretive. What do you talk to your neighbours about over the garden fence?'

Capital punishment

Ex-cop Elliot has a target on his back as Gangs of London returns

NEW DRAMA

Gangs of London

Thursday, 9pm, Sky Atlantic
(box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

Undercover police officer Elliot (Sope Dirisu) has been on quite the journey since he first infiltrated London crime dynasty the Wallaces in the first season of Sky drama Gangs of London.

After rising through the ranks to become an assassin, he was last seen stringing up Sean Wallace (Joe Cole), who'd inherited the family's lucrative criminal enterprise, in a junkyard, promising to take over everything he'd built.

RIDING HIGH

'At the end of Season 2, Elliot told Sean: "Watch, I'm going to become you, I'm going to do it better than you ever did,"' says Dirisu. 'And at the beginning of Season 3, he's living up to his promise.'

It's quite a turnaround for the man who started out on a mission to take down the capital's warring gangs, led by the likes of Albanian gangster Luan (Orli Shuka), Pakistani heroin kingpin Asif (Asif Raza Mir) and Kurdish militant Lale (Narges Rashidi), from the inside.

'Elliot's journey over the course

Andrew Koji
and Sope Dirisu

of the series of Gangs of London has been crazy,' says Dirisu, recently seen in Apple TV+ horror film The Gorge. 'This guy, who had a wonderful moral compass at the beginning as a police officer trying to infiltrate the gangs in order to bring them to justice, seems now to have joined them without a mind towards redemption.'

Now that Elliot has lost his father and severed ties with his police handlers, he is operating with a new-found freedom.

'Before, he had to live this duplicitous life whereby he was Elliot Carter at home, and Elliot Finch in the streets,' says Dirisu. 'But now those two personas seem to have merged, and he's very comfortable with it.'

As we rejoin for a third season of the ultra-violent thriller, Elliot is riding high as a crime kingpin with an extensive drug dealing operation, while Sean languishes in jail.

However, as fans of the stylish series know, in this competitive criminal world of shifting alliances, where there is no honour among thieves, fortunes can change rapidly. And so it proves for Elliot, who becomes public enemy No 1 after a shipment of cocaine is spiked, resulting in hundreds of fatalities, and mayor Simone (new cast member T'Nia Miller) announces a crackdown on organised crime.

SEEKING THE TRUTH

'Elliot needs to get to the bottom of it, and that leads him to Sean, because all roads lead back to Sean,' says Dirisu, 34. 'Sean leaves a little nugget in his mind that leads Elliot on a crazy journey throughout the series where he's chasing not only the spiking of the cocaine, but also the truth about his family.'

While seeking answers about a family tragedy, Elliot tries to track down Zeek (Warrior's Andrew Koji), an implacable lone-wolf assassin whom he will eventually face down in a memorable fight scene.

'I was actually a bit worried, because Andrew has a martial-arts background, whereas I just pretend to do it,' admits Dirisu. 'So I was like: "I'm gonna get my ass kicked here!"'

STREET-FIGHTING MAN

Season 3 sees the introduction of ruthless new character Cornelius Quinn, played by Blue Lights and Fortitude star Richard Dormer, who has joined forces with Sean's brother Billy (Brian Vernel).

In a classic Gangs of London set piece, the pair first meet in a night-time showdown in a deserted fairground, which includes a Bond-style gunfight in a hall of mirrors.

'That was my first day of filming, and it was a baptism of fire, battling in a fairground in the pouring rain,' reveals Dormer, 55, whose Irish character wields an Irish shillelagh (a wooden cudgel) as his weapon of choice. 'Elliot and Luan turn up, looking for somebody, and they get the sharp end of my stick!'

Red Nose Day

Friday, from 7pm, BBC1 & BBC2

It's 40 years since comedian Sir Lenny Henry and comedy screenwriter Richard Curtis founded Comic Relief to raise money for good causes in the UK and around the world, with Red Nose Day making its debut on BBC1 three years later.

This Friday, the annual live event celebrates four decades of Comic Relief with a star-studded birthday bash, featuring hilarious sketches involving Strictly Come Dancing, Gladiators, Not Going Out and Beyond Paradise, plus a special musical surprise.

At the helm is original co-presenter Jonathan Ross, who's joined from 7pm on BBC1 by Davina McCall, Joel Dommett, Alison Hammond, Rylan Clark and Alesha Dixon, while Tom Allen and AJ Odudu take over from 10pm on BBC2.

Here, Ross, 64, tells us more...

What are your memories of the first Red Nose Day back in 1988?

I presented alongside Lenny and Griff Rhys Jones and it was incredibly exciting. I still remember Richard and Lenny Paint the town RED!

Comic Relief original Jonathan Ross leads the charity's 40th-birthday celebrations taking me to lunch to tell me their plans. I feel lucky to be part of this anniversary, and it's a great way to mark the very first show.

How does the 2025 line-up compare? Red Nose Day has evolved from a few presenters doing the whole show to a much bigger line-up with guest appearances. It's more organised now, but there's still plenty of spontaneity. Unpredictability and energy are what make it special.

What sketches stick out for you over the years? The Mr Bean Blind Date sketch with Cilla Black was brilliant. Paul Daniels once did a magic trick involving milk, but the running order changed and by the time he performed, it had solidified! It didn't work, but everyone rolled with it.

What is the secret to Comic Relief's success? Comic Relief taps into something wonderful about human nature – the desire to help others. The variety of people the charity supports and the impact it has, both in the UK and abroad, means your donation is helping in multiple ways.

Wednesday, 9pm, BBC1

Billy Monger takes on rain, fatigue and jellyfish

In April 2017, two weeks before his 18th birthday, talented racing driver Billy Monger was injured in a crash at the F4 British Championship at Donington Park and had to have both his legs amputated.

Fast forward to last October, and Billy, 25, is crossing the finishing line at the Ironman World Championships in Kona, Hawaii, where he has just broken the record for a double leg amputee.

As part of Comic Relief, BBC1 goes behind the scenes during his record-breaking feat, including his year of intensive training. The Ironman course consists of a 2.5-mile swim, a 112-mile cycle and a 26.2-mile run.

'During training, there were moments where I was in the pool doing length after length or on a late-night run, thinking, "Why am I putting myself through this?"' admits Monger. 'But knowing it was for Comic Relief kept me on the right track.'

Monger's hard work paid off in Hawaii, where, despite being strung by jellyfish and battling torrential rain and fatigue, he finished in 14 hours 23 minutes and 56 seconds – breaking the record by more than two hours.

'As I crossed the line, I could see my family cheering, and I realised I'd actually done it,' he smiles.

Clue CLUB

The Marlow pals are back to investigate more murders

NEW CRIME DRAMA

The Marlow Murder Club

Wednesday, 8pm & 9pm, U&Drama (box set, U)

In the first season of U&Drama's hit Buckinghamshire-set whodunnit The Marlow Murder Club, a trio of intrepid amateur detectives discovered a talent for crime-solving.

Now, as a second run begins, shrewd crossword compiler and ex-archaeologist Judith (Samantha Bond), perceptive vicar's wife Becks (Cara Horgan), and spirited dog walker Suzie (Jo Martin) have formed a strong bond that has given each of them a new purpose.

'A real friendship has blossomed between them,' says Bond, 63. 'Judith's whole world has widened due to Becks and Suzie, and it has given her the courage to embrace new experiences. And as actresses, too, we've got a camaraderie and shorthand now.'

KILLER INSTINCTS

The opening instalment of the new six-episode season, which comprises three two-part investigations, sees Judith receive a call from wealthy landowner Sir Peter Bailey (James Wilby), who has heard about her growing reputation for sleuthing, and invites her to attend a lavish garden party that he is hosting prior to him marrying his nurse Jenny (Yuna Shin).

Peter believes that something bad is going to happen, and he is proved right when, after the bash gets under way and a family row ensues, he is found crushed to death under a cabinet in his study.

'Judith never thinks anything is an accident and because something was worrying Sir Peter, she's confident that it was murder,' shares Bond. 'But because he's killed by a piece of furniture in a locked room, it's about working out how someone got in or out. It's ingenious. We end up chasing someone while all riding on a mobility scooter!'

As the gang teams up once again with tenacious local cop DS Tanika Malik (Natalie Dew), later episodes feature a murder in a cul-de-sac amid ructions over a new housing development, and a death at a sailing club, while Judith dips her toe back into the world of archaeology,

MAGICAL SETTING

The guest cast includes appearances from Samantha Womack, Patrick Robinson, Nina Sosanya, Hugh Quarshie and James Gaddas. But Bond believes that the real star of the show remains the riverside town of Marlow itself.

'The intrigues of the plot appeal to audiences, but so does the beauty of Marlow – the river is bewitching,' she reflects. 'And the local people have been amazing with us – they kept stopping us to say they're thrilled we are back. It's a magical part of the world.'

Robert Webb

NEW High Hoops

Monday-Friday, 6.25pm, CBBC
(box set, BBC iPlayer)

Born in Lincolnshire, Robert Webb teamed up with David Mitchell for nine series of C4 sitcom Peep Show (inset) from 2003 until 2015. The pair also starred in various sketch shows, including That Mitchell and Webb Look. Webb was a contestant on Strictly Come Dancing in 2021 but withdrew after a few weeks, due to a health condition, while other credits include Whitstable Pearl and Death in Paradise.

HIS NEW SHOW

This week, Webb, 52, plays uptight head teacher Mr Holt in new children's comedy series High Hoops, which follows accident-prone teen Aoife (Darci Hull), who vows to transform the fortunes of her school basketball team and reinvent herself at the same time. 'Mr Holt is an aggressive, competitive and angry teacher,' says Webb. 'Aoife's come to a new school and wants to be one of the cool girls. But Mr Holt speaks to her quite disrespectfully, which is lots of fun for me.'

TV WEEK

Sally Lindsay returns for more sleuthing in sunny France

Bonjour, Madame!

NEW DRAMA

The Madame Blanc Mysteries

Thursday, 9pm, 5

When Sally Lindsay, the creator and star of The Madame Blanc Mysteries, saw her castmates Sue Holderness and Robin Askwith riding jet skis on their day off from filming, she knew she had to incorporate it into the show.

'I saw them zipping across the Mediterranean, and I went, "Right, that's going on the telly,"' recalls Lindsay. 'There are no body doubles – that's really them doing it, and they spent all day filming it. Where else will you see two 70-plus hotties on TV looking that gorgeous? That representation is really important to me.'

The fourth run begins as Judith and Jeremy, played by Holderness and Askwith, discover the body of a businessman in a boat out at sea, with two rare coins covering his eyes. Antiques expert and amateur sleuth Jean (Lindsay) delves into the case to see if the coins point to the killer – while also trying to keep her new romance with best friend Dom (Steve Edge) under wraps.

'It's exciting for Jean and Dom – it's a bit like they're still at school, but it's the other end of the age scale,' says Lindsay, 51. 'Neither of them wants kids and they're both financially independent, so they've got no reason to rush.'

GOZO-BOUND

Although set in France, the series is filmed on the Maltese island of Gozo, and the show's success has done wonders for the local tourism industry.

'Whenever there's an episode on TV, bookings for holidays in Gozo go up,'

NEW COOKERY

The Great Celebrity Bake Off

Sunday, 7.40pm, C4

As a fresh batch of stars prepare to showcase their baking skills and raise money for Stand Up to Cancer, there's a new judge tasting their wares – cookery writer and teacher Lady Caroline Waldegrave.

She's filling in for regular judge Dame Prue Leith, her friend, who is sitting out this year's celebrity specials. The opening episode sees husband-and-wife podcasters Chris and Rosie Ramsey taking on property-presenter siblings Scarlett and Stuart Douglas – but who will win the coveted Star Baker apron?

Here, Waldegrave, 72, reveals what it was like to join Paul Hollywood in the famous tent...

Chris and Rosie Ramsey and Scarlett and Stuart Douglas

How did you feel about joining the show? I was completely terrified. Then, when I turned up, there were flowers and banners saying, 'Welcome!' Everyone was so kind and friendly that I relaxed.

You've known Prue for many years. Did she give you any advice? She told me to be brave and say what I think. The thing I've learnt from teaching is that if you say the nice bit first, then they can hear a little bit about what might have gone wrong.

It's very much a family affair in the first episode. Was there a lot of rivalry between the contestants?

There's great chemistry in the tent this week. We laughed most of the time, and the dynamic between the four of them was really interesting.

Were there any other celebrity bakers that you were excited to meet? I have always admired Phil Wang, so I was really pleased to see him later in the run. I'd watched a lot of Ghosts, so I was happy to see Jim Howick, too – he's the most extraordinary man because he's so modest; you wouldn't know he was a star at all. And the person who was the most fun and full of energy was Sophie Willan [from BBC2's Alma's Not Normal]. You couldn't not like her.

What else can I watch?

Tempting Fortune

Sunday & Monday, 9pm, C4

The backstabbing reality show returns for a second eight-episode series hosted by Paddy McGuinness (left) as 12 new contestants are dropped into the Malaysian jungle for a test of willpower and honesty as they compete for a cash prize. With just basic rations and survival equipment, they must trek for 18 days while trying to resist luxuries in order to win. Will they be tempted? And if so, will they come clean?

The Equalizer

Wednesday, 9pm, Sky Witness

This week's episode finds Robyn (Queen Latifah, left) going undercover at a female prison to find a woman who went missing on the day she was scheduled to be released. When the prison admits it has 'lost' an inmate on a previous occasion, Robyn goes inside as an inmate to uncover the truth, and gets caught up in a high-stakes game of life and death. Can she escape the danger?

The White Lotus

Monday, 9pm, Sky Atlantic

It's a dark night of the soul for the Ratliff clan as Victoria (Parker Posey) is horrified when daughter Piper (Sarah Catherine Hook, left) reveals her intentions to spend a year in a Thai monastery, while Tim (Jason Isaacs) spirals deeper into despair over the legal troubles back home. Meanwhile, Belinda (Natasha Rothwell) attempts to share her fears about Greg (Jon Gries) – but will anyone believe her?

The Residence

NEW

Available: Thursday 20 March

Genre: Comedy drama Season: 1 Eps: 8

Her breakthrough role came as jailbird Suzanne 'Crazy Eyes' Warren in hit Netflix prison drama Orange Is the New Black. Now, Uzo Aduba is on a mission to put a felon behind bars when she plays an eccentric sleuth investigating foul play at the White House in The Residence, an ambitious new whodunnit from the makers of Grey's Anatomy and Bridgerton.

Aduba stars as detective Cordelia Cupp, who is called to the prestigious Washington residence when a member of the staff is found dead.

'The show is about a murder mystery that takes place at the White House on the night of a state dinner,' explains Aduba, who previously played pioneering Black US politician Shirley Chisholm in drama series Mrs. America. 'It involves all the people who are in that world – the staff, presidential administration and guests in attendance that evening.'

QUIRKY APPROACH

Every TV sleuth worth his or her salt has a quirk, and for Cordelia, it's birdwatching.

'Cordelia is an avid birder and sees the world through their unique abilities, which informs the way she approaches solving cases and the kind of detective she is,' says Aduba, whose character is first spotted peering through binoculars on the White House lawn. 'Her birding background also speaks to her memory and her eye for detail. Birding is a solo sport, and she's a solo player.'

Cordelia's first job is to inspect the crime scene, a games room where the body of chief usher A.B. Wynter (Giancarlo Esposito) was found by the President's mother-in-law (Jane Curtin), along with a suicide note.

'The role of the chief usher is almost like the head of state for the staff – they organise, schedule and direct everybody,' explains Aduba.

The suspects include members of the large White House staff, President Morgan (Paul Fitzgerald) himself, plus his family and entourage, from close adviser Harry Hollinger (Ken Marino) to troubled younger brother Tripp (Jason Lee), not to mention the hundreds of guests, including the Australian Prime Minister (Julian McMahon) and his diplomatic staff, and star turn Kylie Minogue (playing herself).

The high number of suspects makes this a particularly challenging case for the no-nonsense detective, who is aided and abetted by FBI agent Edwin Park (Randall Park) and Chief of Police Larry Dokes (Isiah Whitlock Jr).

'Cordelia understands very quickly that this will not be an easy case to solve,' says Aduba, 44. 'Anyone could have committed this crime.'

Playing it straight

Jimmy Carr on his new show where laughter is for losers...

prime Last One Laughing UK

NEW Available: Thu 20 March Genre: Comedy Season: 1 Eps: 6 (first four eps from Thu 20 March; eps 5-6 from Thu 27 March)

We're used to comedians making us laugh but what happens when Bob Mortimer, Rob Beckett and Daisy May Cooper are put in a room together and banned from even the slightest giggle?

That's the premise of Prime Video's six-part show Last One Laughing UK, hosted by Jimmy Carr, in which 10 comedians – also including Joe Lycett, Sara Pascoe, Richard Ayoade, Joe Wilkinson, Lou Sanders, Judi Love and Harriet Kemsley – are brought together to try to make each other laugh. The last one to keep a straight face wins.

'It's a very simple but brilliant format,' says Carr. 'None of the comedians know who they're competing against until they walk in and the game begins. The winner is whoever can refrain from laughing for the longest.'

We met up with Carr, 52 to hear more....

The format has already been a hit in other countries. What's its secret? It's like turning comedy into a sport. You see some playing offence, they're getting straight in there, going up to other people and trying to make them laugh, while others are playing defence. Comedians are not generally the sporty kids. We're the ones who had to be funny and suddenly this is our chance to be sporty.

Comedian Roisin Conaty is also in the show. What's her role? Roisin and I sit in an adjacent room watching the comedians on a screen.

We're looking to see who cracks and as soon as they do, they're ejected and have to come and join us.

How hard do they find it not to laugh? There was some unbelievable gurning going on. A few of the comedians had been online to research the best ways to keep a straight face and avoid cracking.

Did anyone surprise you with their efforts? A couple did much better than I expected. Rob Beckett has a resting cheerful face and is someone who looks like he's half laughing at all times, so that's quite challenging for him.

Who would be your biggest threat if you were a contestant? Bob Mortimer would be my weakness with his brilliant comedy. He would definitely set me off.

Can Athena save Maddie's life as 9-1-1 returns?

NEW Available: Friday 21 March Genre: Crime drama Season: 8 (part 2) Episodes: 10 (released weekly)

Call-centre dispatcher Maddie Han is caught up in a terrifying kidnapping ordeal as Ryan Murphy's all-action first-responder drama returns to Disney+ for the second half of Season 8.

Actor Jennifer Love Hewitt has endured dozens of perilous situations as Maddie since joining the show in Season 2, but the 46-year-old star says her latest storyline is the scariest yet as a pregnant Maddie is snatched by a serial killer.

As the Los Angeles team comforts Maddie's husband Chimney (Kenneth Choi), patrol officer Athena (Angela Bassett) must race against time to save her colleague's life.

'It is the craziest thing I have ever done on 9-1-1,' says Love Hewitt. 'I wasn't ready for it – and I don't think the audience will be either. I did not know this storyline was coming and I can't wait for people to see what happens. It is so wild, but so much fun.'

Elsewhere, fans will also get to witness the fallout from Station 118 firefighters Tommy and Buck's break-up, while colleague Eddie is set to move to Texas to reunite with his son Christopher.

'I'm really excited for the first episode back,' says showrunner Tim Minear. 'We used the first half of the season to tie up loose ends and reunite the 118. Now, we are going to blow it the hell apart.'

Happy Face

NEW

Available: Friday 21 March

Genre: Drama Season: 1 Episodes: 8

(first two eps from 21 March, then weekly)

The daughter of a notorious serial killer uncovers unimaginable horrors in this gripping drama that delves into the chilling true story of Keith Hunter Jesperson, who is currently serving life in prison for a shocking 1990s murder spree.

Inspired by an acclaimed podcast hosted by Jesperson's daughter, Melissa Moore, the eight-part stars Dennis Quaid as the evil trucker, who forces his way back into his daughter's life decades after being exposed as the 'Happy Face Killer', so-nicknamed after signing smiley faces on his many letters to police and the media.

Melissa was 15 years old when she discovered her once-beloved father had murdered at least eight women over five years. Years later, we find Melissa (Annaleigh Ashford) living with husband Ben (James Wolk), who also knows the truth, although her children are clueless about their family's dark past.

MINDSET OF A MURDERER

When an imprisoned Jesperson tracks down his daughter to a TV talk show where she works, he calls charismatic host Dr Greg (David Harewood), claiming he has a long-held secret to confess, and Melissa becomes determined to uncover if an innocent man will be put to death for a crime that her father committed.

The series follows Melissa's troubled quest to understand her dad's double life as she visits him in an Oregon prison with Dr Greg's justice-seeking true-crime producer, Ivy (Tamera Tomakili), while flashbacks also reveal the intricate father-daughter relationship at the heart of the drama.

'I wasn't necessarily interested in playing a serial killer, but what drew me to it was what the show's about – the relationship between Jesperson and his daughter,' says Quaid, 70, who recently starred in 2024 biopic Reagan and Oscar-nominated film The Substance.

'Melissa was a little girl back then, and he was a doting father at the same time that he was committing these murders. When he was caught, Melissa had to reconcile the fact that her father was a serial killer.'

Bradley Walsh: Egypt's Cosmic Code

Tuesday, 9pm, Sky History
(box set, Sky Box Sets & NOW)

Armed with a notebook, measuring tools and a fedora hat, The Chase and Gladiators host Bradley Walsh channels his inner Indiana Jones to fulfil a lifelong dream when he visits Egypt to find out who really built the pyramids – and why.

After starting his career as an apprentice at Rolls-Royce, Walsh became fascinated with ancient engineering and has always questioned the idea that the amazing structures were really constructed by the Ancient Egyptians 4,500 years ago.

'I heard this rumour that the pyramids weren't built by the Ancient Egyptians at all and that, in fact, they were built by a race that had died out, or by someone or something else,' explains Walsh, 64.

'When you hear people talk about the accuracy and precision of the pyramids, dimension-wise, it sounds incredible. I'm not a conspiracy theorist, but I need to find out the truth.'

Icons of Style

From Sunday 16 March, BBC iPlayer

A two-part series in which Kirsty Wark (above, with designer Pam Hogg) looks back over 60 years of Scottish fashion, from punk pioneer Vivienne Westwood's passion for tartan to pop star Annie Lennox's groundbreaking androgynous look. Contributors include actor Alan Cumming and Texas singer Sharleen Spiteri.

Dr Meredith Brand shows Walsh the construction techniques

and how they developed their engineering skills over 150 years.

'Meredith showed me where the beginnings of the pyramids were, so you can see their evolution over 150 years,' explains Walsh. 'One's wonky and one's drooping on one side, so it's all trial

Earth and is the only surviving wonder of the ancient world.

Academics believe it was built 4,500 years ago for Pharaoh Khufu, the second king of Egypt's Fourth Dynasty, and that it took between 24 and 27 years to complete. But Walsh isn't convinced that would have been possible.

'If you do the number-crunching, it doesn't make sense,' he explains. 'They're moving a block of limestone the size of a car. And they've got to lay one of those every two and a half minutes to build what they did in the time they had.'

However, to challenge his own argument, Walsh teams up with leading Egyptologist Dr Meredith Brand, who's determined to prove how the Ancient Egyptians did indeed build the Great Pyramid and error. It's like having Dame Mary Berry making the worst cake in the world and then all of a sudden 150 years later going, 'Ta-da, here's a showstopper!'

HISTORICAL MYSTERIES

Later in the three-part series, Walsh unlocks the riddle of the Sphinx, and enters Tutankhamen's tomb as he tries to decipher Egypt's cosmic code, which suggests the universe, mathematics and ancient monuments might all be linked through hidden number patterns.

'I'd never been to Egypt before, so when we first pulled up at the pyramids in a jeep it was just mind-blowing, like I'd stepped on to a movie set,' he says. 'Hopefully, people will watch this series because it certainly broadens the mind.'

Professor Alice Roberts reveals the glories of Greece

NEW TRAVELOGUE

Ancient Greece by Train with Alice Roberts

Saturday, 8pm, C4

Alexander the Great's statue in Thessaloniki

From mainland Greece to the Cyclades and the Ionian coast of Turkey, Professor Alice Roberts is taking viewers on a journey into Ancient Greece for her new series.

Over five episodes, she reveals how the Ancient Greeks developed art, democracy and philosophy, and the influence it has had on our world as she meets archeologists and historians, and visits ancient sites including the ruins of Delphi.

INFLUENTIAL CULTURE

Her journey begins in Thessaloniki, where she learns about Alexander the Great and his father Philip II, king of Macedon.

'The history of Greece flows into the history of Rome and is the underpinning for Western civilisation. I don't think you can understand our society today if you don't engage with Greek history,' says Roberts, whose previous train travels included Ancient Egypt and the Ottoman Empire.

'Going to Aigai was a highlight because I've always wanted to see the tomb of Philip II. It was incredible and the new museum, next to the site of the royal palace, was beautiful and full of wonderful treasures.'

Later, she also travels to Delphi, one of the most popular tourist destinations in Greece.

DIPLOMACY

'One of the biggest surprises was the revelation that Delphi acted like a United Nations for the Greek city states,' continues Roberts. 'It was a political hub where representatives from other cities could gather in a neutral space.'

Subsequent episodes see her visit the historic island of Paros and get a tour by archaeologist Yannis Kourayos, who's been digging there for 25 years.

'Yannis' team have discovered a cache of ancient objects dating back to the geometric period [approx 900 to 700 BC] and also excavated an ancient site where the kilns are amazingly intact,' she adds.

'I love meeting ordinary people on the trains as well as the experts I interview. I hope the series gives viewers a sense of wonder, a different perspective on Greek history and inspires people to visit. We have a lot of fun making the series and I hope that shows.'

An astonishing account

in the early 1960s

Nickel Boys

PERIOD DRAMA

Available now,
Prime Video

Cinematographer-turned-director RaMell Ross' superb, risk-taking adaptation of Colson Whitehead's novel puts us in the shoes of two African-American boys wrongfully locked up in a brutal reform school in 1960s Florida. It does so by adopting a first-person point of view so that we witness the film's unfolding narrative through the eyes of its protagonists, a device that doesn't just immerse us in their experiences but makes us viscerally feel them as well.

To begin with, our perspective is mostly that of Elwood (Ethan Herisse), a bright teen who has his sights set on gaining admission to a local technical college. But after he innocently hitches a lift in a stolen car, he's incarcerated in the Nickel Academy (based on the notorious Dozier School), where the racist guards mete out violent abuse on the black students (the white inmates get a far easier ride).

There Elwood meets and befriends the more cynical Turner (Brandon Wilson), and the film's viewpoint now occasionally switches so that we see things from Turner's perspective, too. Later on, the shooting style takes another bold turn, with the camera now hovering slightly above and behind the character's head.

This isn't as successful as the more poetic style used earlier, but by then the film's radical empathy will have won you over. 2024, 12, 140MIN

Although it's a cliché, the less you know about this fiendish thriller the better. The trailer gives too much away, which is a shame because going in fresh will set you up for a grisly treat. All you need to know is couple Jack Quaid and Sophie Thatcher travel to meet up with his pals (Megan Suri, Harvey Guillén and Lukas Gage) in a fabulous house out in the middle of nowhere, owned by a gregarious Russian (Rupert Friend). Once there, though, someone isn't who they seem... Writer-director Drew Hancock's debut is a superb lesson in juggling genres to create something special – the comedy elements are genuinely funny, the thriller aspects incredibly tense, while horror fans won't go away disappointed either. Who could possibly play singer Robbie Williams in a film of his life story? The answer turns out to be a CGI chimpanzee. The idea sounds stratospherically silly but in the hands of director Michael Gracey, here delivering even more razzle-dazzle than in his debut film The Greatest Showman, the simian conceit really does work.

It's a far-out but thrillingly fresh take on the well-worn musical biopic genre, although the film's narrative traces a very familiar arc – hard-scrabble childhood in working-class Stoke-on-Trent, meteoric rise to fame as the cheeky monkey in boy band Take That, followed by solo success accompanied by suicidal self-loathing and crippling addictions, through to eventual rehab and redemption.

A stunning motion-capture performance by Jonno Davies captures Williams' spirit remarkably well (Williams himself sings and narrates), while Gracey's extravagant staging of such hits as Rock DJ, Angels and Let Me Entertain You is truly exhilarating. 2024, 15, 135MIN

If ever there was a movie to highlight just how much effortless charm and star power can achieve, this is it. George Clooney and Julia Roberts have been happily divorced for almost 20 years when their daughter Kaitlyn Dever decides to marry Balinese seaweed farmer Maxime Bouttier. So the bickering pair try to bury their distain for each other and join forces to stop the nuptials. The plot is by-the-numbers, but George and Julia make terrific company with their snark and snipes, before feeling the bonds between them grow again. Although more sentimental than comic, this still has the feel of a classic old-school screwball comedy. 2022, 12, 104MIN

New Formula One season

Sky Sports expert Anthony Davidson gives us the low-down...

LIVE MOTORSPORT

F1: Australian Grand Prix

Saturday, race starts 4am, Sky Sports F1 & Sky Sports Main Event

Seven-time champion Sir Lewis Hamilton makes his much-anticipated switch to Ferrari after 12 years at Mercedes and Red Bull's Max Verstappen goes for a fifth world title in a row as Formula One roars back with the opening Grand Prix of the season in Melbourne, which starts early Sunday UK time.

Once again, Sky Sports will be covering all the live action with an expert team that includes former F1 driver Anthony Davidson. We caught up with the former world endurance champion to hear more...

What can we expect from Lewis Hamilton at Ferrari? I'm excited to see what he can do there. The car will be fairly competitive and I will be amazed if he doesn't win a few races. Even towards the tail end of last year, he was still performing at his very best in races. Qualifying will be a challenge, but he might be rejuvenated by making this switch.

There are lots of driver changes. Who are you excited about?

Liam Lawson, who joins Max Verstappen at Red Bull. He has just 11 races under his belt, so that will be a learning curve for him. He has got to keep his head because so many drivers get crushed by Verstappen. Italy's Kimi Antonelli is set to become third-youngest-ever F1 driver at 18 years old. There's a lot of hype around him, but I think he's ready for the challenge of joining George Russell at Mercedes.

Which is your favourite place to visit each season?

I spent a lot of time driving for Honda and Toyota, so I love going to Japan. I am fascinated by the culture. Budapest and Montreal are right up there, too – both great cities and great races.

What are the pressures of live broadcasting?

I began out on radio so I found it quite intimidating when I first joined Sky to have several TV cameras stuck in your face. But it has got easier.

Nerves are good – it shows you want to get the best out of yourself.

How do you relax away from broadcasting?

The season can be like going in for a marathon so I focused on recharging my batteries over the winter to make sure I'm in tip-top shape. I live in the country, not far from Silverstone, so I like to mountain-bike and spend time with my two children. School life is super-important, so when I'm at home I try to be around 24/7 for them.

Sir Lewis Hamilton joins Ferrari for this year

FIVE FAST FACTS

1 This year's F1 season features 24 races across 21 countries, the same as 2024, with Melbourne hosting the opener for the first time since 2019.

2 Barcelona stages its final Spanish Grand Prix on Sunday 1 June before the race moves to Madrid from next year.

3 Only two teams, McLaren and Aston Martin, have stuck with their 2024 driver pairings, while six rookies make full-time debuts for their teams, including British teenager Oliver Bearman at Haas.

4 There are six sprint races in the calendar – China, Miami, Belgium, Austin, São Paulo and Qatar.

5 After six years, the bonus point for the fastest lap in a race has been scrapped.

KIDS WATCHLIST

Great shows for young viewers (from tots to teens) on linear TV and streaming

NEW

High Hoops
Weekdays, 6.25pm, CBBC & BBC iPlayer

In this new comedy, Aoife has just started at a new school. She's tall, gangly and clumsy - so it seems she might be just the right person to help the school's failing basketball team, the Vipers.

And maybe, just maybe, if Aoife (Darci Hull, centre) can transform the fortunes of the ailing Vipers, she could reinvent herself as super cool and popular at the same time?

High Hoops also features Peep Show's Robert Webb as teacher and basketball coach Mr Holt - so there's entertainment for all the family here!

BE@RBRICK

Available from Friday, Apple TV+

Based on the collectible toy bears, this animated series follows Jasmine Finch (voiced by Brianna Bryan) and her bandmates as they pursue their dreams and hope to inspire others to do the same. However, it's not easy in a world where everyone's role is chosen for them.

Jasmine decides that if she and her friends really want the world to change, they will have to make it happen themselves. Full of catchy songs, the series also features The Crossover's Skyla I'Lece, who voices Holly.

More great shows to watch this week...

My Life: Me, My Horse and My Spear
Monday, 6pm, CBBC & BBC iPlayer

We meet 11-year-old Jaleel and 15-year-old Subhaan, part of a new generation of horse riders taking up the competitive sport of Neza Bazi.

Wolf King
Available from Thursday, Netflix

Based on the Wereworld novels by Curtis Jobling, this new animated fantasy adventure follows 16-year-old Drew Ferran, who discovers he is the last surviving member in a long ancestral line of werewolves.

Star Wars: Young Jedi Adventures
From Wednesday, Disney+

Kai Brightstar and his Jedi younglings friends are back for more galactic adventures in new episodes.

Malpractice

Tom Hughes stars in a new run of the medical thriller

A shocking event places a seasoned doctor's career under threat in the second series of ITV1's anthology drama Malpractice.

The five-part series, airing later this spring and written once more by real-life former NHS doctor Grace Ofori-Attah, sees Helen Behan and Jordan Kouamé reprise their roles as Dr Norma Callahan and Dr George Adjei, who work at the Medical Investigation Unit (MIU) and look into cases of alleged malpractice within the health profession.

This time around, their attention is on dedicated but cocky Dr James Ford (Tom Hughes), an on-call psychiatric registrar with a troubled private life, who is torn between treating a psychotic patient and dealing with a new mother who is having a postnatal check-up.

IMPORTANT PIECE

When events take a tragic turn, James' decisions come under scrutiny while the standards at his hospital are also placed under the spotlight.

Selin Hizli, Zoë Telford, Ace Bhatti,

Hannah McClean, Seraphina Beh and Rick Warden co-star.

'I couldn't be more delighted to be playing James and helping bring to life Grace's pertinent and important piece, which stopped me in my tracks when I read it,' says Hughes. 'I hope the audience is equally as gripped and engaged by it.'

'I'm excited to be delving into the world of psychiatry, my medical speciality, with an incredible cast led by Tom Hughes,' adds Ofori-Attah. 'I can't wait.'

WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

David Tennant

In ITV1's The Assembly, the actor will be one of four celebs interviewed by people who are autistic, neurodivergent and/or learning disabled. Gary Lineker, Jade Thirlwall and Danny Dyer will also take part.

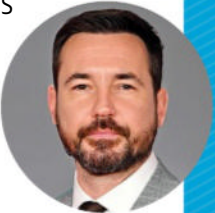

Louisa Harland

The actor will appear in BBC1 comedy drama The Walsh Sisters, based on Marian Keyes' novels about Dublin siblings. Caroline Menton, Danielle Galligan, Máiréad Tyers and Stefanie Preissner co-star.

Martin Compston

In C4's three-parter, Martin Compston Living Las Vegas, the Line of Duty star, who resides in the US city with his family, will lift the lid on its hidden gems, from his favourite restaurants to the secrets of the Mojave Desert.

Coming Back

Following a successful Christmas special last year, ITV1's revival of darts game show Bullseye, hosted by Freddie Flintoff, will return for a four-part series, in which more pairs of contestants step up to the oche to win prizes.
